

An Effective Voice – EN16636 Press Coverage

DAILY ECHO

Rokill Pest Control Services awarded EN16636 Standard

A PEST controller has become one of the first in the country to win a new accreditation promoting professional standards.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Rokill Pest Control Services, at Bingley, has become the first in the country to be accredited in the UK, to be measured against the EN16636 Standard.

Director Chris Turner said: "The EN16636 Standard is a very important for us to demonstrate accreditation provides independent proof of that."

"It was a lot of hard work to achieve it, but we are proud to be one of the first members of the British Pest Control Association to achieve this accreditation."

The standard was launched earlier this year.

BN eastmidlandsbusinessnews

Notts firm jumps ahead with new mark of quality

5th February, 2016

A Nottinghamshire company has become one of the first in the country to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Newbury Weekly News

Pest control company achieves quality standard accreditation

Countrywide Pest Management is first in Thames Valley to be awarded new professional certificate of both rodents and insects, and are experts on integrated pest management, the use of chemicals and health and safety issues. The standard is a strategy to portray a company as a leader in the pest control industry.

Guardian

Gainsborough pest control firm are the first in Lincolnshire to receive new mark of quality

A Gainsborough company has become one of the first in the country to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

LANCASHIRE BUSINESSVIEW

Colne firm jumps ahead with new mark of quality

A Colne company has become the first in the North West to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Newbury & Thatcham Chronicle

Pest control company achieves quality standard accreditation

Countrywide Pest Management is first in Thames Valley to be awarded new professional certificate

A NEWBURY company has become one of the first in the country to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

SCOTLAND B2B East Coast Edition

Edinburgh firm jumps ahead with new mark of quality for pest control

Easter Road company becomes the first in Scotland to receive European Standard for Pest Management Services accreditation

An Edinburgh firm has become the first in Scotland to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

NELSON LEADER

Harvey has the best pest firm in town

By Will Owen

A Colne company has become the first in the North West to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Harvey Environmental, based in Primrose Business Centre in Burnley Road, has become the first company in Lancashire and only the 19th in the UK to be measured against the standard.

Managing Director Martin Harvey is confident the accreditation can help his team to stand out from the crowd.

He said: "The EN16636 Standard is a mark of quality, so the fact we're the first to be accredited in the North West is a feather in our cap."

"It's very important for us to demonstrate our professional status and achieving this accreditation provides independent proof of that."

"It was a lot of hard work to achieve it because the auditing process was tough, but we're proud to be one of the first members of the British Pest Control Association to achieve this accreditation."

"We believe that having this standard will be a great benefit to the business as it demonstrates our commitment to quality and our commitment to our customers."

LANCASHIRE TELEGRAPH

Seal of approval for pest control team

Harvey Environmental is awarded the European Standard accreditation

By VENESSA CORNELL

A Colne company has become the first in the North West to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Harvey Environmental, based in Primrose Business Centre in Burnley Road, has become the first company in Lancashire and only the 19th in the UK to be measured against the standard.

Managing Director Martin Harvey is confident the accreditation can help his team to stand out from the crowd.

He said: "The EN16636 Standard is a mark of quality, so the fact we're the first to be accredited in the North West is a feather in our cap."

"It's very important for us to demonstrate our professional status and achieving this accreditation provides independent proof of that."

"It was a lot of hard work to achieve it because the auditing process was tough, but we're proud to be one of the first members of the British Pest Control Association to achieve this accreditation."

"We believe that having this standard will be a great benefit to the business as it demonstrates our commitment to quality and our commitment to our customers."

pest

EN16636 Conquered!

Conquer Pest Control, based near Nottingham, has become the company to be successfully audited against the recently introduced European Standard for Pest Management Services EN16636.

The British Pest Control Association plans to measure all of its 450-plus servicing members against this standard, which is independently assessed by Bureau Veritas.

Henry Mott, managing director of Conquer, is vice president of the Confederation of European Pest Management Associations (CEPA) and a board member of the BPCA.

He said: "I was very pleased we were the first to be accredited."

Thinking BUSINESS

Ashford firm jumps ahead with new mark of quality

An Ashford company has become one of the first in the country to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

The European Standard for Pest Management Services acts as a demonstration of credentials and a benchmark of quality throughout Europe.

Countrywide Pest Control, based in Evington Way, became only the 19th company in the UK to be measured against the standard.

WORKSHOP Guardian

Gainsborough pest control firm are the first in Lincolnshire to receive new mark of quality

A Gainsborough company has become one of the first in the country to achieve a new accreditation promoting professional standards in pest control.

Worcester News

Small pest-control firm hits the gold standard

Worcester News

Small pest-control firm hits the gold standard

Small pest-control firm hits the gold standard